Adventure tour to Iguazú Falls in Argentina

Four days at Iguazú Falls, from both the Argentine and the Brazilian side: the jungle train, walkways over the cascades, the Devil's Throat and rainforest as far as you can see.

Argentina 4 days From €750 per person

The tour

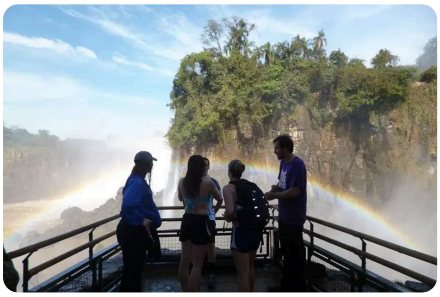

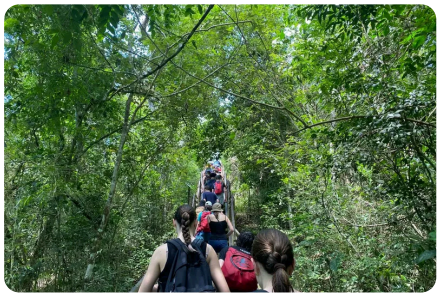

Iguazú Falls, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, is a line of 275 waterfalls tumbling through the rainforest on the border between Argentina and Brazil. This four-day tour bases you in Puerto Iguazú to see them from every angle, with bilingual guides who know the site inside out.

On the Argentine side you ride the 'Jungle Train', a small eco-train through the forest, then follow the trails and catwalks of the Upper and Lower Circuits to the Devil's Throat. On the Brazilian side, the view opens up into a panorama of the whole falls. As an option, a boat ride to the foot of the cascades.

The last day is yours: wander around Puerto Iguazú, visit an animal refuge or meet a Guaraní community. The tour is open to adults from 18, solo or in a group.

What makes it different

- The falls from both the Argentine and Brazilian sides
- The Jungle Train and the Devil's Throat
- Bilingual guides and a 3-star hotel
- A free day in Puerto Iguazú

Day by day

Day 1: arrival in Puerto Iguazú

Arrival at Puerto Iguazú airport, transfer to your hotel and time to settle in before the days in the forest.

Day 2: the Argentine side of the falls

A full day in the park: the Jungle Train through the rainforest, the Upper Circuit for the big views, the Lower Circuit to get close to the cascades, then the Devil's Throat. Optional: a boat ride under the falls.

Day 3: the Brazilian side of the falls

Across to the Brazilian side for a panorama of the whole falls, along trails running beside the rainforest.

Day 4: free day and departure

Free time in Puerto Iguazú or optional excursions: the Güirá Oga animal refuge, or a visit to a Guaraní community. Transfer to the airport for your departure.
